Concert Merits Bravos

By KEITH GARDNER

To determine who best pleased last night's capacity crowd in the Morris Dailey auditorium — the college symphony orchestra or its two soloists — would require the flip of a figurative three-headed coin.

Suffice it to say the audience brought back Dr. Lyle Downey, conductor, and soloists Clorinda DiLorenzo and Allyn Ferguson for a total of six curtain calls throughout the concert.

Brahms' third symphony, which opened the program, has been played so often that only an exceptional performance is capable of arousing an audience to enthusiasm. The college orchestra gave such a performance and received its well-earned response.

Miss DiLorenzo then took the stage to offer the aria "Ritorno Vespertino" from Verdi's famed Egyptian opera, "Aida."

In a clear, full-timbred soprano she sang of the Princess Aida, torn between love and filial duty. When her voice sank at the end of the aria in the confused consternation and despair that the piece demands, the proverbial pin-drop could easily have been heard throughout the auditorium.

The silence, however, was short-lived and the audience aptly demonstrated that they had not exhausted their fund of applause on the opening work.

They continued to so demonstrate after each of the remaining numbers: a rendition by pianist Ferguson and the orchestra of Dohnanyi's amusing "Variations on a Nursery Song," and the orchestra's final presentation of the overture to von Weber's opera, "Der Freischutz."

The Dohnanyi offering was very successful as the "piece de resistance" of the evening. The work began with a lengthy, thunderous orchestral opening, climaxed by Ferguson deftly picking out the melody—"Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star."

At first amused, the capacity crowd quickly shifted to fascination at Ferguson's virtuoso work at the piano. They brought him back for two curtain calls and demanded three additional ones of Dr. Downey after the finale.

Resignation Of Ensemble To Sing For Dr. Wahlquist Is Confirmed

Joe Juliano, SJS Alumni director, will resign, effective Jan. 1, to take a sales position with a local manufacturing corporation. No successor has yet been named, he reported.

"Because my resignation will not be effective until the first of the year, I am not free to disclose my future plans fully at this time," Juliano stated.

Juliano, the college's first director of Alumni was chosen for the job from among 14 applicants Jan. 1, 1951. Before that time, Juliano said, the alumni association was a rather loosely-organized group, without any well-formed goals.

"My main efforts for the past two years have been directed at arousing SJS students' interest in the Alumni association, and in the good it can do, promotionally, for the college," Juliano explained.

Through a number of projects, such as getting reduced rates for students at downtown theaters, speaking to freshman and senior orientation groups about the association, and hashing programs to help the athletic staff, the director of alumni has managed to arouse the desired student and community interest in the association.

Juliano played football for the Spartans in 1942, '46, '47 and '48. He was named to the Little All-Coast squad as a guard, and placed on the second team Little All-American selections in 1948.

Active in student body affairs while attending SJS, Juliano directed the acclaim-winning Spartan Revelries of 1948, "Up Powell."

German Yuletide

A Christmas party in the best tradition of old Germany will be held tomorrow night in the Student Union, starting at 7:30 p.m., Dr. William Hermanns, faculty chairman, said yesterday.

The party is being sponsored by the German language classes, but all students are invited, Dr. Hermanns said.

Ensemble To Sing For Dr. Wahlquist

The choral ensemble will serenade Dr. John T. Wahlquist, president, and the student body with familiar Christmas carols tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. in the Inner Quad.

Gus Lease, assistant professor of music, will direct the groups in the traditional holiday serenade. Doris Wagener will be soloist and Phyllis Terra will accompany the group on the organ.

"Music will be provided for all students who wish to join in," Mr. Lease said.

The ensemble will join with the orchestra Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock for the annual Christmas cantata.

Solos for the cantata, "Holy Child," will be taken by Rita Marchoke, Ray Johnson and John Morrison. A concerto for orchestra also is included in the program.

Class Readers

Standards and requirements to be used in the employment of class readers will be the Fairness committee's first topic next quarter, Dr. Elmo Robinson, director, announced yesterday.

AWS Holds Annual Christmas Party

AWS holds its annual Christmas party in the Student Union today from 3:30-5:30 p.m., according to Carol Larson, AWS president.

All women student and faculty members are invited to come any time between those hours, Miss Larson said.

Each guest will receive holly name tags. Refreshments will be served and Joyce Malone will lead the group in Christmas carols with Ingrid Andersson accompanying her on the piano.

Ingrid Andersson will be Santa Claus.

By TED FALEY
The Student Court, after floundering for years in a quagmire of impotency and student apathy, yesterday found signs of solid footing in a mountain of suggestions and tentative plans formed by a student-administration committee.

A committee of student and administrative leaders met yesterday afternoon to attack the court's problems which were brought to a head by the recent election violation trial of Gene Standfield.

Daily's Winter Editor To Be Named Today

Winter quarter editor of the Spartan Daily will be appointed this afternoon by the Student Council.

Gerald Belcher, this quarter's feature editor of the Daily, was winner of the traditional staff preferential election, an advisory vote. The council will act on recommendation of Dr. Dwight Bente, Journalism department head.

Student representatives of the Housing Standards committee will report that standards now being worked out will feature a "three-way" contract between the college, student tenants and householders, according to Tom Evans, ASB president.

The Spartan Democrats are overhauling their constitution to comply with recommendations of the Student Court, Evans said. The Democrats will apply for recognition again when they have completed the changes.

The Constitution committee today will present the recently adopted bylaws in mimeographed form. The bylaws are being distributed to campus publications, division chairmen and faculty members who are active on student body committees. Organizations and individuals may obtain copies in the Associated Students office in the Student Union.

The council will consider the question of sending student delegates to the Third Annual Model United Nations conference at University of California, April 15 through 18, Evans said. SJS delegates represented France in 1950 at the conference at Stanford university and acted "in behalf" of Indonesia last year, when the conference was held at University of Southern California.

Evans said he would present "some idea of making the whole campus more aware of what Student Government is doing." As an example he said that an assembly could be held in Morris Dailey auditorium in which a council session might be a means of having each committee explain its activities.

The results of the meeting are, in effect, a rebuttal of the charges voiced last week in the Spartan Daily "Thrust and Parry" column that the court is useless to student government and completely disorganized.

This committee was formed to correct the situation and determine the power and position of the court on the campus, according to Binder.

A smaller subcommittee was appointed yesterday to evaluate the suggestions and tentative proposals.

The basic function of this subcommittee, Binder explained, is to delineate the procedure and power of the court.

Three Possible Punishments

"In doing this," he said, "we plan to classify the offenses and set penalties for specified crimes."

Three possible means of punishment were suggested yesterday: (1) service to the college; (2) a monetary fine; and (3) a notation on the offender's personnel record.

"The third punishment would be used only in extreme cases," Binder said. A notation of misconduct on the personnel record must be included whenever the student requests a letter of recommendation from the college, according to the Chief Justice.

In every case the court has two possible sources of punishment, he pointed out. Either the court could punish the offender or the case could be referred to the administration.

All Proposals Tentative

Except for a few charges, such as moral charges, the court will handle the cases of student offenders, Binder said.

All proposals made at the meeting yesterday are tentative and subject to change by the subcommittee, the main committee and President John Wahlquist, Binder emphasized.

Low Pressure System Boils Up More Rain, Wind for Northern California

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — Another low pressure system off the Washington coast was boiling up more rain and wind to throw at northern California yesterday.

The Weather Bureau here said the new storm front, centered about 600 miles out in the Pacific, would dump rain on the Ukiah-Red Bluff region first, then spread southward.

It also was expected to bring more snow to mountain areas.

The weatherman said "indications are" the new rain storm would not be as heavy as the one that caused considerable flooding over the weekend.

Air Force Wreck

ANCHORAGE, ALASKA (UP) — An Air Force ground crew was to go about the grim task yesterday of identifying and removing bodies from the wreckage of a C-124 Globemaster at the 8,000-foot level of Mt. Gannett, 60 miles east of here.

Four members of a 12-man crew reached the wreckage yesterday afternoon and reported no signs of life aboard the big plane which carried 52 persons to their death.

Lawyer Opens Race Case

WASHINGTON (UP) — A Negro attorney opened historic arguments before the Supreme Court today with the declaration that race segregation in schools forces Negro children into "an inferior caste."

Robert L. Carter of New York, representing Negro parents, asserted that segregation in itself is a denial of "equal educational opportunities" to his race.

Congratulations To Exhibitors

Students and faculty members of various college departments place numerous items on display throughout the campus area weekly to show what their particular departments are accomplishing. Numerous objects are put on exhibit, too, to show viewers items of current interest.

There are three new displays on campus which should be of great interest to students and faculty members alike.

The Industrial Arts department is displaying two exhibits this week. The one in the Reserve Book room features tables, lazy susans, a radio-phonograph and various types of metal work, all of which are of original design. The second display demonstrates the use of industrial arts on the elementary level and may be seen in the laboratory in B31.

On exhibit on the second floor of the Science building are some fascinating reptiles. The most interesting perhaps is a boa constrictor, a tropical snake.

Every week such impressive displays can be found on exhibit in most of the hallways of the campus, from the Library to the Home Economics building. We think these displays are fine contributions to campus life. Students and faculty members who take part in such exhibits are to be congratulated for such distinguished efforts.

TB Benefit 'Great Success'

Approximately 250 Spartan couples braved damp, dreary weather Saturday night to make the first annual Christmas Seal Ball a social and financial success. Don Binder, president of Alpha Phi Omega fraternity, reported yesterday.

The dance netted more than $50 for the National Tuberculosis association, he said. It was sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, and the college Social Affairs committee.

Binder will present a check for the profits to the president or an executive member of the county board of the NTA this afternoon. The presentation will take place at 1:30 o'clock in the Bank of America building, he said.

"The dance was a great success; everyone enjoyed himself," said Tom Evans, ASB president. "I think it is wonderful that San Jose State can participate so well in a community service project."

"Alpha Phi Omega and the Social Affairs committee are to be congratulated on sponsoring a dance which should become a tradition here," he said.

Thrust and Parry

Three Sneers

Dear Thrust and Parry:

Food for thought for seniors: We are thought of as thinking for ourselves by the time we get to be seniors.

We are taught that there shall be no ex post facto laws passed anywhere in the United States, but low and lower still is our administration with their "Required Exam in California State Government," passed after we, who are seniors now, had enrolled in Sparta. Three cheers and three sneers at our administration for their laxity and fumbling of this matter.

Another "fumble" of the "powers-that-be" is the lectures on alcohol, narcotics and safety. That which is taught in the very sketchy lectures is common knowledge of seniors. Another sneer.

Very bad policy is noted in forcing the graduating students to pay $5 for a year's membership in the Alumni Association, in which they have no interest. If you don't believe it, ask any senior. Another sneer.

How about correction of these faults now?

Super Sleuthing

Dear Thrust and Parry:

My congratulations to ASB 540, 2482, 5449, 800, 2361, 4959, and 1068 for their supersleuthing ability in uncovering such an unpardonable sin as that committed by a certain member of our Rally committee. Their supersleuthing exploits are only surpassed by their desire to bring wrong to the public eye. Indeed, they are valiant men. For with no thought of reward in mind, they unfolded for the student body a grave and a nasty occurrence. It is truly upon the shoulders of humanitarians such as these supersleuths that the future of our noble institution rests.

I am troubled, however, by one simple question, which I am certain can be quickly explained. If these fine and commendable people were at the president's meeting, and there is no doubt in mind that they were, how did they know that a certain member

Teachers of Many Lands To Visit SJ

Secondary school educators from 12 foreign countries will meet with department heads Friday to discuss educational methods and to exchange ideas.

The 23 visitors, all teachers, administrators in secondary schools or instructors of teachers, are taking part in an international program of the U.S. Office of Education.

Executive Dean James C. DeJoss is in charge of the visitation. The guests represent Iran, Finland, Brazil, Egypt, Burma, Italy, Pakistan, India, Ceylon, Denmark, Norway, and Hong Kong.

First Layouts

La Torre staff began laying out senior pictures yesterday. Carole Simmons and Dick Zimmerman, co-editors of the yearbook, announced this morning. Seniors will be grouped according to department, with names listed alphabetically, the co-editors said.

Loan Benefits Korean Vets

New and full loan guarantee rights for purchasing homes or farms under the Korean GI bill now are available for Korean vets, the Veterans Administration announced today.

These loan rights cover veterans with service since the outbreak of the Korean conflict — June 27, 1950 — who sold the homes they purchased with guaranteed loans under the World War II GI bill.

The Korean GI bill, signed by the president, July 16, 1952, extends the loan guaranty provisions of the World War II GI bill to veterans who served anywhere in the world since the Korean campaign started.

Lost-Found Loot Sets New Record

Mrs. Betty Street reported yesterday that the accumulation of lost and found articles in the Information office is the largest in recent years.

According to Mrs. Street, uncalled for books, clothing, notebooks, purses and wallets are approaching the unmanageable stage.

Two wristwatches are the most valuable items in the collection, Mrs. Street said.

Top Engineer Will Speak This Evening

"What is New in Science and Engineering" will be the topic of an address by Everett S. Lee, past president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, this evening at 7:45 o'clock in Room 210 of the Natural Science building.

Lee's talk will cover outstanding recent developments in engineering and science and will be of interest to members of all technical societies.

The former institute president is a fellow of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, senior member of the Institute of Radio Engineers and a member of the New York Society of Professional Engineers and other national organizations.

He served as a director and vice president of the Institute of Electrical Engineers before becoming its president for the 1948-49 term.

College Will Offer Course In Building

An evening course in light building construction will be offered by the college during winter quarter, according to Dr. Ralph J. Smith, Engineering department head.

The first session of the class will be held at 7:10 p.m., Jan. 5, in Room 210 of the Library.

The class will meet from 7:10 to 8:30 o'clock Monday and Wednesday evenings from Jan. 5 through March 9. It is open to regularly enrolled students of the college and to interested citizens, Dr. Smith said.

Students may enroll either for three units of credit or as auditors. Registration and payment of the $5 fee will be completed by the second meeting of the class.

The course will be concerned with both production and cost control methods used in mass production of housing by the housing industry in its effort to meet the demands of the growing Santa Clara valley. Problems of community land planning, site selection, financing, design, and incorporation of technological advances in building operations also will be included.

Drama Coach Issues Call For Tryouts

Tryouts for the Speech and Drama department's production of Jean Anouilh's "Eurydice" will be held Thursday and Friday at 4 p.m. in the Little Theater. All students are eligible to try out.

Dr. James Clancy, professor of drama, will direct the French tragedy.

"Eurydice" will be the only modern production in the department's season. The year opened on Halloween with Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest."

Current production is Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleopatra," running tonight through Saturday in the Little Theater.

Dr. Clancy's production will open Jan. 31.

The story-line, following the Greek legend of Eurydice, concerns a traveling star, a violin player and the complications of their love affair.

In the "columnists' union, of which I am an apprentice member on trial basis, it is a rule that sometime during the year, preferably on or about Dec. 25, a column on Christmas must be written.

And, apparently, it also is a rule that the column must begin: "Dear Virginia: Yes, there is a Santa Claus."

Being, as I said, a mere apprentice, who am I to break the rules? So: "Dear Virginia: Yes, there is a Santa Claus. I hope to tell you there is an abundance of Santa Clauses. You can't walk down the street without being accosted by at least half a dozen Santa Clauses of various sizes, shapes and spels."

There, I think I've performed my duty. I really didn't want to say anything about Santa Claus or about Virginia. I don't even know the girl. And as for Santa Claus, I suppose he's a pretty right guy.

What I wanted to comment on was kids. I don't know, perhaps it's a phase I'm going through. Or perhaps I'm just growing up to be a cranky old man. Anyhow, along about this time of the year, I get so I simply can't stand kids.

My complaint is that they have it too good. I refer to the loot the little beggars will be stashing away come Christmas morning. If you've noticed the toy advertisements lately, you know what I mean.

Now I am a Child of the Great Depression, and, as I think I have stated here before, things were tough back in the old days. Did I ever get a full suit of genuine imitation Roman Armor, including helmet, price tag $32.50? Did I ever get a Space Cadet Uniform with Goldfish Bowl helmet, price tag astronomical? Did I ever get a four-foot tall doll that cries out, weeps, walks and performs various other fascinating little tricks? Did I? Did you? Nah.

I do remember getting a set of boxing gloves, with which my grandfather promptly bloodied my nose. The gloves were of imitation leather and stuffed with excelsior which made you sneeze. Bloody noses and sneezing don't go well together.

And I also remember that from my fourth year on my Uncle Cecil always gave me a plug of Day's Work chewing tobacco. Uncle Cecil stopped sending my annual chew a year ago, just when I was beginning to like the stuff.

I kept getting that same pair of boxing gloves and a plug of tobacco and a bloody nose every Christmas for years. I was rather slow as a child and didn't catch on until I was fourteen.

When I finally complained, they took the boxing gloves away, gave me a plow, pointed me toward the ancestral estates and said, "Plow and ye shall reap." Well, I plowed, but I never reaped. Times were tough.

That was the way things were. Nowadays I don't suppose one kid in a hundred has ever plowed a field or got his nose bloodied. They just mope about all day watching Capt. Corbett flash off to Mars. Or they sit around making astounding sophisticated and witty remarks which their parents promptly write down and send off to the Reader's Digest.

Well, I think this whole blob of type is as sophisticated as anything a four-year-old is likely to say, so I'm sending it off to Reader's Digest. If I get anything out of it, I'm sending Santa the shekels and requesting a doll, about five-two, that walks and performs various other fascinating tricks, but doesn't cry out.

Lieftrink Pair Show Varied Talents

By DAVE ELAM

The Lieftrink sisters, Patsy and Norma, have been scoring hit after hit in both phases of college life—the social and the scholastic. Patsy was chosen Homecoming Queen and Campus Hostess recently, and Norma, head SJS majorette, was one of two coeds representing the college in the recent Maid of Cotton contest in Fresno.

The sisters are transfers from Santa Rosa junior college, and both are majoring in education. Patsy is a senior with a special secondary major in music. Norma is a junior G.E. major.

In addition to her extra-curricular activities, each is carrying 16 units, and amazingly enough, has maintained better-than-B, over-all averages.

Perhaps it isn't too strange, however, when one considers that both girls came to college with scholarships—and they weren't exclusively bookworms in pre-college days either! In fact, Norma was named state champion baton twirler while at J.C. last year.

She was majorette for the American Legion drum and bugle corps, and, as she puts it, "When they went to the state competition, I went along, too."

Last year, Patsy modestly tried out for the chorus in "Kiss Me Hello," the 1951 Spartan Revelries, and promptly was picked for the lead role as "Cynthia." She is a member of the college's cappella choir.

From Motorist To Pedestrian; A Horror Tale

By CLAUDE PARKER

I drive to school every day. I don't drive to school on weekends because there is no school.

But on week days I drive to school. I follow 400 other cars at 8:20 a.m. down the long boulevards that lead to Sparta's great institution.

I drive bumper to some guy's bumper in front of me. Sometimes I bump into the guy in front of me. I hit him hard because he stops suddenly, and he gets out of his car. He walks up and says something to me. Then he hits me in the face. The line of cars starts toward the great institution.

My car is carried along with it. I wipe the blood from my face, and spot a parking place. I don't go far.

I find my path blocked by seven other cars. They are all aiming in the same direction I aim. But I keep on going. I find that someone else has parked in my place. I argue with the driver, who gets out of the parked car. I tell him I saw the spot first. It is the same driver who hit me in the face.

The line of cars starts again and I'm carried along with it. I see a sign on the left that says, "Alpha Phi Omega—parking lot." I don't know how much it costs, so I drive into the lot. I am carried along by the 100 cars that are attempting to find a place to park. I find myself heading for a parking spot. So I stop my car and get out. I am parked.

I see a girl student behind me. She says she is very late to class, and needs the spot to park her car. She says she is going to have an exam and cannot afford to miss the class. I tell her that I would give her my place, but I cannot back out into the line of cars.

She looks at me with hard, cruel eyes. I say that I am sorry. She hits me over the head with her textbooks, throws me into my car, and bumps me out into the street.

I am carried along with the line of cars. I note that the line is heading down Seventh street. I am very close to school because I see Spartan stadium. I decide to park on a vacant lot. I park my car and get out. I am carried along with a group of mad boys who wear white shirts. They take me down to the other end of the field and we go into a huddle. They decide on 32-B, so I walk away to school to find 32-B.

Men in red shirts yell that I am a flanker and rush towards me. Something hits me on the head and bounces off. I am knocked down by men in red shirts.

Somebody rushes up and tells me to get my car off the field and get out of there. I wipe the blood off my face and drive away.

The line of cars starts again and I am carried along with it. I pass some buildings and I recognize them as the great institution. I am so joyous that I rush out of my car and forget to find a parking place.

I am late to school. When I get out of class I remember my car.

I sometimes look up now to see if I might see mine among the line of cars that go to school every day. Sometimes I think I see it, but I don't really care. I walk to school.

SJS 'Daisy Mae' Gets Korea Poem

By DICK DEGNON

Unique Christmas greetings came recently to Carol Rust, blonde senior home economics major who last May was chosen "Miss Daisy Mae of Dogpatch, Korea."

Miss Rust, who was graduated from Hayward high school and attended Chico State college before coming to Sparta, was entered in the contest last spring by a GI acquaintance, Mike Roddy, who is serving with the 18th Fighter-Bomber Wing in Dogpatch, Korea.

Dogpatch needs little introduction to the millions of Lil' Abner readers throughout the world and Dogpatch, Korea, became a byword with US armed forces last spring when they were battling the communists for the crucial military sector, which was so named for its topographical resemblance to the Dogpatch of the comic strip.

Once again her name pops into the news as she received the following Christmas poem written by an anonymous lieutenant colonel of the 40th Division:

"Twas the night before Christmas, and all through the tent, was the odor of fuel oil, the stovepipe was bent. The shoeboxes were hung by the oilstove with care in the hope that they'd issue each man a new pair. The weary GIs were sacked out in their beds, and visions of sugar babes danced through their heads. When up on the ridge-line there rose such a clatter. A Chinese machine-gun had started to chatter. I rushed to my rifle and threw back the bolt. My tentmates awoke with a horrible jolt. Outside we could hear our platoon Sgt. Kelly, a hard little man with a little pot belly. "Come Clancy, come Yancey, come Connors and Watson; up Miller, up Schiller, up Baker and Dodson." We tumbled outside with a swirl of confusion, so cold that each man could have used a transfusion. "Get up on that hill-top and silence that Red! and don't you come back 'till you're sure that he's dead!" Then putting his thumb up in front of his nose, Sgt. Kelly took leave of us shivering Joes, but we all heard him say in a voice soft and light: "Merry Christmas to all MAY YOU LIVE THROUGH THE NIGHT."

SJS Graduate Flies To Reno For Wedding

A press photography graduate of San Jose State college, Robert D. Stone, who is now a reporter on the Chico, Calif. Enterprise-Record, recently surprised his associates by hopping off to Reno, Nev., to marry Marianne Stutz, a KXOC radio commentator.

It took the couple four hours to fly the 200 miles to Reno in a plane belonging to the brother of the bride, John Stutz, who acted as best man. Sally Seigel was maid of honor.

The groom was photo editor of La Torre when he was attending SJS. After a stint in the service during World War II, during which he served as an aerial photographer, he worked as a lithographic cameraman with Color-Tone in San Francisco. He was also photographer for the Taylor publishing company, and field editor for the Navy military year book.

The former Miss Stutz was graduated from the College of Arts and Crafts in Oakland and took post-graduate work at Chico State college. She was formerly society editor of the Enterprise-Record.

Panhellenic To Instruct Girls About Rushing

A meeting to explain the college rushing system will be held Tuesday, Jan. 5 at 3 p.m. in the Morris Dailey auditorium for all girls interested in joining a national sorority.

Girls who are unable to be at college during registration, Dec. 29 and 30, should mail their transcript of grades to the Dean of Women's office if they are interested in sorority rushing winter quarter, according to Phyllis Nye, panhellenic representative.

In order to rush winter quarter, she explained, girls must sign up at one of the two sorority rushing booths during registration and present their grade transcripts at this booth.

Transcripts may be mailed only if a girl is not at school during registration. She may then register Monday, Jan. 5, for rushing.

SPARTANS DEFEAT GATORS

Locals Win Third, Stay Undefeated

By BILL TUNNELL

Coach Walt McPherson's Spartan basketball team, who, at the first of the season were expected to do very little in the way of winning games, won their third straight last night in the Spartan gym against a highly-rated San Francisco State eleven, 63-56.

The Golden Raiders led from the start on a foul toss by Fred Niemann, their stellar center, and never were headed in their quest for triumph.

The SF Gators came into town an unknown quantity. This was their first start of the season against a college eleven. They held wins over two service outfits of inferior quality. The Spartans narrowest margin came at the end of the game as the Raiders threw away a 13-point lead in the last two minutes with reserves dotting the lineup.

The Spartans never were in serious danger of losing the decision with both Niemann and forward Don Edwards hitting from all angles when the need arose.

The cool Edwards was the high scorer for the game with 17 points. He hit from all sides with his set shot and a version of the jump-shot, something new which he has added to his repertoire lately.

Niemann, the play maker, who could very well make Washington Square rooters forget about the great George Clark of last season, followed Edwards in the scoring column with 16 tallies.

Coach McPherson started the same quintet which defeated the Fresno State Bulldogs Friday night, 58-40. He led off with Carroll "Mighty Mite" Williams and the ever-reliable Lee Jensen at the guard spots, Edwards and Bill Abbott drew the assignment for the forward posts and Niemann led at center.

The Spartans started off like a storm, taking the Gators by surprise, and held a first quarter lead of 13-6. The Bay Area five came back in the second quarter, to pull within nine points of the Raiders, which left the half-time score reading, 34-25. The local quintet quickly got the situation in hand again in the third period, to lead at the end of that session, 52-38.

The Spartans, with their set style of play-making, slowed down the race-horse type ball-playing of the Gator five. Play never moved slowly, but never did the Raiders let the Bay Area squad play their brand of ball. Time and again Williams, Jensen and Dick Schwendinger, the Spartans other diminutive guard at 5'7", stopped the Gator attack with their superb ball-hawking.

Williams was third in the scoring column for the Spartans with 11 points, followed by Jensen with nine. Schwendinger was next in line with four. Dick Brady collected three. Newt Hodgson had two and Abbott had one to round out the Raider scoring.

Al Desin, the Gator center, who was supposed to be their big gun, was held to two points by Niemann and Edwards, who alternated at the center spot. But the Spartans couldn't stop Gene Busby after the first half. He collected 13 points in the second period to lead the Gator scoring with 14 points.

Next in line for the Gators in scoring was Lydon Mayfield with 12 points followed by Vic Gipson, their star from last season's frosh squad, with 11 digits.

Bob Steinbach, although he didn't break into the scoring for the Spartans displayed some fine ball-handling and should turn into a fine ball-player for Coach McPherson before long into the season. He has a jump shot much the same as Jensen's which always leaves him in the clear.

The local mentor will also be helped out by the rugged Stan Wacholz, who just reported to the squad, from the football team. Wacholz stands 6'3½" and weighs 205 pounds. He is a rugged man under the backboards.

Coach Dan Farmer of the Gators started the game with Busby and Charles Miller at the forward positions, Desin at center and Jim Green and John Burton at the guard posts.

The Spartababes came off with another triumph in the preliminary, gaining a decision over the Gator junior varsity, 56-47. The leading scorer for the frosh squad was Tom Crane with 11 points. Next in line with the points was Don Fausset and Don Hughes who were tied with eight points apiece.

Finch Marries

Bill Finch, captain of the Spartan varsity water polo team, added to the celebratedness of the SJS victory in the California State College Championships when he announced to his teammates following the title game Saturday night that he was now a married man. Finch, a 28-year-old senior physical education major, took Miss Gwen Kilmer, 22-year-old University of California Nursing School student, as his bride in Las Vegas, Nov. 1, but had kept it a secret until his post-game announcement.

DICK BRADY, stellar forward for the Spartan quintet, was one big reason for the locals' victory last night over the San Francisco State Gators, 63-56. Brady was sidelined in early season practice with ankle injuries, but now is rounding into shape.

Stanford Takes Films For Conference Ruling

Pasadena, Calif., Dec. 9 UP)—Stanford university today prepared to ask Pacific Coast Conference representatives to act as movie critics and determine if there were any flaws in Southern California's 54-7 victory performance over the Indians.

Stanford obviously believes certain flaws will be detected when movies of the Indians' game with the Trojans are shown.

But Stanford and PCC officials would not say what the school's complaint was and what action it sought.

Officials showed more elusiveness than some of their swivel-hipped hallbacks in dodging questions on the subject.

Al Masters, Stanford's director of athletics, at first refused comment on whether he had brought movies to the winter meeting here. Masters later changed his mind.

Coach Chuck Taylor of the Indians, when first questioned, denied he had brought the pictures. He said the Indians' loss was a result of a "good game" by Southern California. Taylor did admit, however, that some question might be raised about officiating in the contest.

Some of the confusion about the pictures and what action will be sought was blamed partially on PCC regulations which bar newsmen from committee sessions.

H. P. (Dick) Everest, faculty representative from Washington and official conference spokesman, holds noon and evening press conferences to disclose what has transpired. He discloses, that is, only that material which conference representatives deem disclosable.

Everest, at last night's conference, denied any knowledge of the movies. He said that the movies were not on the meeting's agenda and he had no official work on it.

Within a few hours Everest had reversed his field and came up with the announcement that the movies were here and would

WAA Doings

By
By BILL FARR

Gals from several of the Bay Area colleges got together for a little chit-chat a few weekends back up at Holy Names college in Oakland. The main objective of the conclave was to schedule Sports Days for the ensuing winter and spring quarters.

Representing SJS were Dr. Elizabeth Prange, senior WAA adviser; Mae Stadler, WAA president, and Barbara Hoepner, an assistant basketball manager.

The Sports Day schedule for the winter quarter will be basketball and orchesis at Stanford, Jan. 24; basketball with Holy Names at San Jose, Feb. 7; basketball and swimming with Stanford at San Jose, Feb. 14; basketball with Mills at San Jose, Feb. 21. A triangular Sports Day featuring swimming and basketball with San Francisco State, Holy Names and the University of California at San Jose, Feb. 28.

The third basketball practice session scheduled for tonight in the Women's gym has been cancelled due to repairs being made on the gym.

A double elimination tournament will begin the second week of the winter quarter, with the games being played on Wednesday nights from seven to ten o'clock. Anyone who is interested in playing and isn't on a team should sign up on the WAA bulletin board as soon as possible.

The tournament schedule will be posted on the bulletin board during the second week of the winter quarter.

Riding club officials announced Monday that riding will not be offered winter quarter because of the slippery condition of the trails. It will be offered spring quarter.

PCC Releases Game Figures For All Teams

Pasadena, Calif., Dec 9 (UP)—Southern California's champion Trojans led the Pacific Coast conference in attendance this season, playing before 564,440 fans in 10 games.

Right behind the Trojans were the California Bears who performed before 528,171 customers in a similar 10-game slate.

The Pacific Coast conference announced that average game attendance at 58 games, involving conference football teams during the 1952 season, was up seven-tenths of one per cent over 1951. The 1952 average for home games was down 2.8 per cent. The 1952 average for all games was 33,677 compared with 33,448 in 1951.

Total attendance last season was 1,953,279 compared with 1,973,430 in 1951 when one more game was played.

Attendance figures for all games:

H.E. Classes Hear Speaker On Lighting

The home equipment problems and home maintenance and repair classes jointly heard a talk by Mrs. Claire McDonald, home economist for the Pacific Gas and Electric company, recently in H17, according to Mrs. Mary Morgan, home economics instructor.

Mrs. McDonald gave the group latest information on home lighting and showed colored slides giving examples of good and poor illumination.

The position that Mrs. McDonald holds, that of "trouble-shooter" for P.G.&E., shows what varied jobs a home economics major may get, Mrs. Morgan said. "Too many people think the only positions open are teaching and dietetics," she added.

After the meeting, Mrs. McDonald lunched with members of the Home Economics department.

Mrs. McDonald is a former graduate of the college, Mrs. Morgan said.

Dean Hareclerod Speaks

Dean of Instruction Fred F. Hareclerod spoke to the home economics staff at their latest monthly meeting, according to Mrs. Morgan.

Purpose of Dean Hareclerod's visit was to discuss methods of improving instruction.

Dairy Products Exhibit

An exhibit of milk and dairy products will be on display in the Home Economics building through Friday, according to Nancy Bramkamp, who planned the project.

Miss Bramkamp, a home economics major, put on the display as part of a course in Methods of Teaching Home Economics.

G.E. Personnel Manager Here

Frank T. Lewis, general manager of the Manufacturing Personnel division of the General Electric company plant at Schenectady, N.Y., visited the college campus yesterday to discuss and tour Spartan engineering facilities and curriculum. Dr. Ralph J. Smith, Engineering department head, announced yesterday.

The G.E. general manager, Dr. Smith said, will determine how engineering graduates can fit into the G.E. manufacturing training program. The program is known throughout the United States, he said.

Upon completion of the training program, the trainees are to become manufacturing engineers. Many of the engineers, Dr. Smith said, later go into manufacturing management.

"I hope that many SJS graduates will fit into this opportune program," Dr. Smith added.

Fog Causes Death

LONDON (UP)—London's worst soot-laden fog in modern history, which in five days has caused more than 100 deaths and an estimated $28,000,000 damage, began to lift today.

Handicapped Scouts Get Student Aid

Troop 45, BSA, San Jose's handicapped children's scout troop, was organized into two patrols at its meeting Thursday evening, reported Dick Conzelmann, chairman of the campus effort to help the troop.

"Up to this time, the troop has lacked organization," Conzelmann said. He added that he and Val Traglavini, other assistant scoutmaster, will work together to organize the troop more thoroughly.

John Alden, junior from San Mateo, and several scouts from his home troop in San Mateo, have volunteered to help with teaching the handicapped scouts handicrafts, Conzelmann said.

Theta Chis Jack Osorio, Fred Butler, Jim Willowby and Conzelmann, along with members of the San Jose Junior Chamber of Commerce, pitched in Saturday to bundle a ton and a half of scrap paper collected by the troop in the past two months.

Students who wish to help the handicapped scouts, may contact Dick Conzelmann at CY3-9629.

Reservations for the Senior Overnight, Feb. 6-7, may be placed with the Graduate Manager's office now, Chairman Alice Dougherty said Monday.

Reporter Views Dearth Of Opinion With Alarm

By DAVE ELAM

After jumping in and out of puddles across the campus yesterday, thinking of how I could condense the long-winded ramblings of certain social science profs, I was astounded to find that none of a considerable group of said gentlemen in the social science office had any opinions.

Perhaps it was the offensive odor of my Plastiglass raincoat, or the depressing influence of the weather. But nevertheless, I was passed around like the proverbial buck from one to another, with each one assuring me that he was no expert on the matter, "but take Dr. Etaoin Shrdlu here, he certainly knows more about your topic than I."

My question dealt with the topic of Cabinet and executive appointments under the new administration, and especially with the possibilities of Gov. Earl Warren finding his way to one of them.

I mentioned to the gentlemen that several of them had shown no hesitancy in expressing opinions for publication during the recent campaigns, and inquired as to the difference in attitude now.

Dr. Dean R. Cresap, associate professor of social science, explained his own views as follows: "The more you know about a subject, the more skeptical you are of prognosticating about it."

Which statement led me to assume that there are some very shrewd guessers (or some lucky ones) in the department, since from their willingness to discuss the recent campaign, I must assume that they knew very little about it.

Staffs Join To Start Class In English Use

In an attempt to simplify the English language for foreign students, the English department and Speech clinic have created a new communications arts course, English AF.

All foreign students registered at the college are required to take the course, which emphasizes writing, speaking, reading, vocabulary building, understanding spoken English, idiomatic English usage and clinical speech.

Dr. Dudley Moorhead, foreign student adviser, will assist in arranging programs. The course is open to all foreign students.

Dr. Smith at UC

Dr. Ralph J. Smith, Engineering department head, will be at the University of California campus today as a representative of California State Colleges meeting with University of California representatives to map out an integrated statewide engineering program.

LUCKIES TASTE BETTER!

They're made better to taste cleaner, fresher, smoother!

Ask yourself this question: Why do I smoke?

You know, yourself, you smoke for enjoyment. And you get enjoyment only from the taste of a cigarette.

Luckies taste better—cleaner, fresher, smoother! Why? Because Luckies are made better to taste better. And, what's more, Luckies are made of fine tobacco. L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike Means Fine Tobacco.

So, for the thing you want most in a cigarette... for better taste—cleaner, fresher, smoother taste... Be Happy—Go Lucky!

FOR A CLEANER, FRESHER, SMOOTHER TASTE...

Be Happy—GO LUCKY!

COLLEGE STUDENTS PREFER LUCKIES IN NATION-WIDE SURVEY!

Nation-wide survey based on actual student interviews in 80 leading colleges reveals more smokers prefer Luckies than any other cigarette by a wide margin. No. 1 reason—Luckies' better taste. Survey also shows Lucky Strike gained far more smokers in these colleges than the nation's two other principal brands combined.

While searching for a smoother smoke, I found a tasty treasure — It was a firmer Lucky Strike With deep-down smoking pleasure!
